- Many of our young people are returning to college in the coming weeks; some are heading away for the first time. We pray every blessing for them during the year ahead. There will be lots of good times and probably some difficult days too. Don't forget that each third level college has its own Catholic Chaplain and Pastoral Care Office who will be delighted to help you out in any way they can. For the majority of our young people who will be attending W.I.T. the Chaplain is Fr David Keating who can be contacted at dkeating@wit.ie or at 051-302617.
- Questions people ask Question: Saint Paul told slaves to obey their masters. Why didn't he speak out against the evils of slavery?
Answer: In Paul's day slaves were often better off than free citizens. Because slave-owners wanted healthy servants, their slaves were more assured of food and lodgings than many of the free. Some students of Paul's life maintain that his parents were slaves who were granted freedom and Roman citizenship when they grew too old to work, a cheap way out for their masters. In today's Second Reading Paul appeals to the Christian master, Philemon, to take back the runaway slave, Onesimus, no longer as a slave but as a brother in Christ.

- Good Reasons not to mess with Children! A little girl was talking to her teacher about whales. The teacher said it was physically impossible for a whale to swallow a human because even though it was a very large mammal its throat was very small. The little girl stated that Jonah was swallowed by a whale. Irritated, the teacher reiterated that a whale could not swallow a human; it was physically impossible. The little girl said, "When I get to heaven I will ask Jonah". The teacher asked, "What if Jonah went to hell?" The little girl replied, "Then you ask him".

- A Kindergarten teacher was observing her classroom of children while they were drawing. She would occasionally walk around to see each child's work. As she got to one little girl who was working diligently, she asked what the drawing was. The girl replied, "I'm drawing God." The teacher paused and said, "But no one knows what God looks like." Without even looking up from her drawing, the girl replied, "They will in a minute!"

"For those of you who doze through today's sermon, you can find it on our Web site."
