- Catholic Schools Week 2015 begins today, the theme for this year is ‘Catholic Schools – Called to Serve. Every day during this week, our Catholic Primary Schools will take time to think about how each one of us is called to serve God and each other with love, kindness, joy, truth and justice so that we can be the kind of people that Jesus wants us to be and bring his love to the world. Our schools provide a service to society and to the common good and are the bedrock of our culture. Accordingly it is appropriate that we celebrate their achievements and particularly so during Catholic Schools Week. We are grateful to the teachers and staff, as we know teachers can inspire love of a subject or confidence in one’s own abilities to achieve. We take this opportunity to thank the staff in both of our schools for their dedication and commitment to our ethos.

- Gardening the Soul ‘Ni h-é an t-éadaigh an fear (clothes do not make the man).’ This old Irish saying tells us, in no uncertain terms, that the things we possess do not and will not define us, nor bring us peace and happiness. Some may still believe abundant possessions bring happiness or that they are a sign of God’s favour, but most of us know that when we are least reliant on material things, we are happiest. A friend of mine who could be materially very well off made major changes in her home recently. By keeping only what she needed on a daily, weekly and monthly basis and giving away everything else, she discovered the secret of living simply. This woman’s attitude is a very simple one: people are more important than things. She has discovered that ‘I have’ is the greatest threat to who ‘I am’. Sr. Stan Kennedy
